The agenda building part of the inaugural Faculty Council meeting convened at 11:10 am.

Discussion opened with the need to select leadership in conformance with the existing Faculty Council By-laws. A seeming conflict defining the composition of the Executive Committee was pointed out between section 2.2 and the first paragraph in section 4 of the Faculty Council By-laws. Moved by Nora Nachumi and seconded that a Bylaws committee will address the question of four officers and their roles on the Executive Committee. Motion carried.

Motion passed that the officers now selected will serve throughout the remainder of this semester until May 15. Nora Nachumi volunteered to serve as Parliamentarian and Lynn Wishart volunteered to serve as Secretary. Accepting temporary assignments by acclamation were Joanne Jacobson as Speaker and Joan Beder as Vice Speaker.

The group identified the following issues as the most critical to address:

- Power of the Faculty Council (the Executive Committee will come up with a range of possibilities)
- Faculty benefits and compensation
- Bylaws of the Faculty Council, including roles of student and library representatives
- Faculty Handbook, including appeals process and tenure guidelines
- Faculty life, including workload, numbers of tenure track and adjunct faculty, service
- Faculty research
- Current status of YU finances and budget

Discussion followed regarding the need first to clarify the nature of the authority of Faculty Council. As needed, members of the university administration and others who can address specific issues.
